Herringbones for both classes, and the challenge for both classes is to spot that, despite first appearances, all of these junctions are crossroads for the purposes of a herringbone.

For the Novices, arriving at one of these junctions on the map and not finding an obvious crossroads may just cause you to pause and check back to see that you have not made a mistake.

But for the Experts it causes more difficulty as crossroads are usually the key for finding a starting point and rotation direction when faced with a circular herringbone.

Once you have spotted them you can work out that the starting point is at 3 o'clock and that it goes anti-clockwise.
